PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 20.

Extract of a letter from London, dated Feb. 4. 1774.

"WE are all very anxious to know the determination of government respecting America. Hostile measures may be expected towards Boston, but as yet nothing particular has transpired. The Boston petition to remove the Governor, has been heard and dismissed. Dr. Franklin attended at the Privy Council on the occasion, and got most heartily abused by Wedderburn the Solicitor General, who took the opportunity of mentioning his avowal of transmitting the Governor's and other letters to Boston; called him in plain terms a thief, and said a man capable of such a breach of private trust, was not fit for any public one. In short, he was guilty of downright scurrility. He applauded Governor Hutchinson, and abused the people of Boston, and met with the apparent approbation of the whole Council. Dr. Franklin is however dismissed from his place in the Post Office, and it is reported will resign his Agencies, with a view of returning to America next fall, there to spend the remainder of his life."

Extract of a letter from London, dated Feb. 18. 1774.

"Six ships of war and seven regiments are ordered for America with all expedition; for what purpose time must discover; the Premier is much perplexed on account of the behaviour of the Bostonians; and Great-Britain is determined to enforce due obedience to her laws as Mother Country. The letters sent to Boston by Dr. Franklin, has made much noise here, and he has been roughly handled by the Ministry for the time; but it is pretty well known with us, that the said letters were given by Mr. Whately to the late Hon. George Grenville, at whose death they fell into the hands of Lord Temple, who gave them to the Hon. Mr. Fitzherbert, and was by that gentleman given to Dr. Franklin."

Extract of a letter from London, dated Feb. 18. 1774.

"Your American affairs are so much the subject of conversation here, that your letter by Capt. Sayres was doubly acceptable. I shewed part of it to some of our East-India folks, who seem a good deal mortified at the spirit of the people on your side, though they affect to treat the disappointment they have met with very lightly. If I can believe them, it is a ministerial piece of business, yet the Ministry say not. However that may be, it comes at such an unlucky time, that it must embarrass them; no less than three councils are said to be held in one week in consequence, and some of the trumpeters in the House have attempted to sound an alarm; yet after all, there are many here who applaud your resolution; though if the tea from Boston had been sent back as yours was, you would have had more advocates here."

Extract of a letter from a Merchant in London, dated February 18, 1774.

"The treatment of the tea in America has excited great wrath here, but how that will vent itself is not yet known, except that some part of it has fallen upon Dr. Franklin, perhaps from a suspicion that he instigated the opposition to its importation. This however is not the given reason. His returning to Boston Hutchinson's and Oliver's letters, is held out to the public as the great offence for which he is deprived of his office. As I am well acquainted with several of the Doctor's friends and enemies in this country, I have had an opportunity of hearing almost every thing which has been alledged for and against him, and I am convinced that the following is a just account of his conduct in that transaction. These letters (with others of a prior date and like tendency) had for some time been shewn about here to several persons in eminent stations. At last they fell into the hands of a gentleman, who produced them to Dr. Franklin, in order to convince him of the truth of a fact, the possibility of which the Doctor had before in conversation denied, viz. That the sending troops to Boston, and other measures offensive to the people of New England, did not arise from any inimical disposition in this Country towards them, but were projected, proposed, and solicited by some of the principal and best esteemed of their own people. On perusing the letters the Doctor gave up the point, and candidly acknowledged himself convinced. He thought, however, that it might have a good effect, if he could convince the Leaders in Boston of the same truth, since it would remove much of their resentment against Britain, as a harsh, unkind Mother, lay the blame where it ought to lay, and by that means promote a reconciliation. He therefore obtained Leave from the Gentleman to send over the letters, but with a Premise that they should only be shewn to a few persons, not printed, nor any copies taken, and the originals returned. This injunction the Doctor actually sent to the Committee of Correspondence, but the Assembly found means to evade it, and printed them. They however took up the matter in the light he intended it, and resolved that all their grievances had originated from those persons.—If the Ministry here had been disposed to a reconciliation, as they sometimes pretend to be, this was giving a fair opening, which they might have thanked the Doctor for, but they chose rather to abuse him, and at the hearing before the Privy Council on an address of the Massachusetts Assembly for the removal of the Governor, indecently suffered the Solicitor General to wander from the point before them into a long studied invective against him, who was there only as a public Messenger, charged with that address to his Majesty. Wedderburne's speech is since printed; but as every body except the courtiers had exclaimed at the scurrility of it, they seem to have been ashamed of it when in black and white, and have omitted much of it, so that compared to the verbal speech, the printed one is perfectly decent."

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman in London, dated February 19, 1774.

"The ministerial People here are outrageously angry with Dr. Franklin. They took occasion, when he was attending the Committee of Council with the petition of the Massachusetts-Bay, to set the Solicitor General upon him, who leaving the business that was before their Lordships, in a virulent invective of an hour filled with scurrility, abused him personally, to the great entertainment of thirty-five Lords of the Privy Council, who had been purposely invited as to a bull-baiting, and not one of them had the sense to reflect on the impropriety and indecency of treating, in so ignominious a manner, a Public Messenger, whose character in all nations, savage as well as civilized, used to be deemed sacred, and his person under public protection, even when coming from an enemy; nor did one of them check the Orator's extravagance, and recal him to the point under consideration, but generally appeared much delighted, chuckling, laughing, and sometimes loudly applauding. I did not before think it possible for any persons, in their stations, to behave in a manner so extremely unbecoming, especially when sitting in a judicial capacity. I never was in America, but I do not believe, that any Judges or Justices of any of your Inferior Courts, in the back Counties, would have conducted themselves with so little dignity, or have disgraced themselves so much, as to suffer a Lawyer to treat even a criminal at their bar, with such outrage. Luckily, however, for the Doctor, those actions of his, which they pitched upon to vilify him for, in the opinion of all good and sensible men here, were two as truly virtuous and good actions as any which dignify human nature. The first being an endeavour to lessen the resentment of New-England towards Britain, by convincing that Country, that the sending of troops, and other measures they complained of, did not take their rise from an inimical disposition towards them, but were originally planned and recommended by some of their own people:—This he effected by returning thither the Governor's letters. The other was the Doctor's endeavouring to prevent bloodshed between two private persons, by avowing publickly that transaction. Had Administration been really disposed to a reconciliation with America, it might have made a good use of the first discovery, dismissed the two mischief-makers, reversed the measures, and restored harmony between the two countries. But instead of thanking him for giving them so good an opening, they seem ready to crucify him. It was formerly said, Blessed are the peace-makers; and the saving of a Citizen, among the ancient Romans, was thought to merit particular honours; but the morals of our Court, it seems are different, and the very reverse of those taught by philosophers and the gospel. Being however satisfied within, the Doctor stood the abuse extremely well, and felt the advantage of a good conscience, which wonderfully supports a man on such occasions, beyond what could be imagined without trial. And he has had the satisfaction to find that he has lost no friends by this attempt to disgrace him; his house has ever since been filled with visitants, who come purposely to shew their regard for him, and express their indignation at the unworthy treatment he received. Some, who could not come, have written him letters to the same purpose.—Wedderburne's speech is printed to spread the defamation wider; but being a little ashamed of it, they have left out of it much of the ribaldry, so that compared with what it was, is now a very decent performance.—The Doctor intends, however before his departure, I hear, to give it a full answer.—I was with great reluctance I am told the Postmasters General dismissed him from his office; they knew his long and faithful services in that department, but the orders they received from the Ministry were so positive, that they could not refuse obeying them without giving great offence.—When people give weak reasons for strong resentment one is apt to suspect, they are not the true ones; so I fancy sometimes, that the Doctor's returning those letters could not be the foundation of all this fury, and that possibly the Preface to the Boston pamphlet, the Prussian Edict, and the rules for diminishing a great Empire, are suspected to be his, and yet not mentioned, left the attention of the public, should be more turned towards those pieces, which are thought to expose the late measures too poignantly. Fleets and troops are talked of, to be sent to America, but what they are to do when they come there, I am at a loss to know, except it be to seize individuals, and send them hither to be punished. God give us all a little more wisdom."

BOSTON, APRIL 21.

A passenger in Capt. Folger says, that as Lord Dartmouth was busily examining evidences concerning the destruction of the Tea at Boston, a Clerk of the House of Commons came to and informed him of the arrival of the Philadelphia Tea Ship, observed it was in vain to make further enquiry about it, for the continent was all in a flame; and upon this his Lordship immediately dismissed the examinants.

We hear that upon the first news of the Tea's being destroyed at Boston, and the dreadful denunciations which were given out against that obnoxious Carthage, a Committee from the North-American merchants waited on Lord Dartmouth to be informed, whether their property might be safe if shipped to that apparently devoted capital? The large cargoes on board half a dozen ships come, and hourly expected, seem a pretty satisfactory answer that the town will not yet be laid in ashes, whatever might be the fate of the Committee, who are again talked of to be sent for and tried on the bugbear statute of Henry the Eighth.

NEW-YORK, APRIL 25.

On Monday last advice was received from Philadelphia, that Capt. Chambers of the ship London, of this port, had taken on board at the port of London, 18 boxes of fine Tea, which were regularly cleared, and the marks and numbers taken. As Capt. Chambers was one of the first who refused to take the India Company's Tea on freight the last summer, for which he received the thanks of the citizens, they could not believe that he knew of the Tea's being on board, and therefore supposed it to have been shipped by some ministerial tool, under another denomination, in order to injure the owners, or the reputation of the matter, or to make an experiment of this mode of introducing the Teas to America. The Committee and Inhabitants, were therefore determined to examine into the matter with great vigilance. In the night the long expected Tea Ship, Nancy, Capt. Lockyer, arrived at Sandy Hook, without her mizen-mast and one of her anchors, which were lost in a gale of wind the 2d instant, when her main top-mast was sprung and thrown on her beam ends. Letters being delivered to him by the pilot, from sundry gentleman of this city, informing him of the determined resolution of the citizens not to suffer the Tea on board of his ship to be landed, he requested the Pilot to bring him up to procure necessaries and make a protest, but he would not do it till leave was obtained. Early the next morning this was communicated to the Committee, and it appearing to them to be the sense of the city that such leave should be granted to him, the ship to remain at the Hook, the Pilot was immediately dispatched to bring him up. This intelligence was immediately communicated to the public by an hand-bill. At six P. M. the pilot boat returned with Capt. Lockyer on board, and although the people had but a very short notice of it the wharf was crouded with the citizens, to see the man whose arrival they long and impatiently wished, to give them an opportunity to co-operate with the other colonies! The Committee conducted him to the house of the Hon. Henry White, Esq; one of the Consignees, and there informed Capt. Lockyer that it was the sense of the citizens that he should not presume to go near the Custom-House, and to make the utmost dispatch in procuring the necessary articles he wanted for his voyage. To this he answered, "That as the Consignees would not receive his cargo, he would not go to the Custom-House, and would make all the dispatch he could to leave the city." A Committee of Observation was immediately appointed to go down in a sloop to the Hook, to remain there near the Tea Ship till she departs for London.

Wednesday night arrived Capt. Lawrence, from London, who confirmed the account received from Philadelphia, of Capt. Chambers having on board 18 boxes of fine Tea, but could not tell who was the shipper, or to whom it was addressed. Thursday the Committee interrogated Capt. Lawrence relative to what he knew of the Tea's being on board of Capt. Chambers, when he shewed them a memorandum in his pocket book, which he took from the cocket in the middle of Capt. Chambers's file of papers in the Searchers Office at Gravesend, corresponding with the advice transmitted from Philadelphia, except in the mark. This morning the following bill was distributed.

TO THE PUBLIC.

"The sense of the city relative to the landing the "India Company's Tea, being signified to Capt. Lockyer,

"by the Committee, nevertheleſs, it is the deſire of a "number of the citizens, that at his departure from "hence, he ſhould ſee, with his own eyes, their deteſta-"tion of the meaſures purſued by the Miniſtry and the "India Company, to enſlave this country. This will "be declared by the convention of the people at his de-"parture from this city; which will be on next Sunday "morning, about nine o'clock, when no doubt, every "friend to this country will attend. The bells will give "the notice about an hour before he embarks from "Murray's wharf." New-York, April 22, 1774.

By order of the Committee.

Friday at noon Capt. Chambers came into the Hook; the Pilot aſked him if he had any Tea on board. He declared he had none. Two of the Committee of Obſervation went on board of Capt. Chambers, and informed him of the advices received of his having Tea on board, and demanded a ſight of all his cockets, which was accordingly given them, but the cocket for the Tea was not found among them, nor was the mark or number on his manifeſt.

About 4 P. M. the ſhip came to the wharf, when ſhe was boarded by a number of the citizens. Capt. Chambers was interrogated relative to his having the Tea on board, but he ſtill denied it. He was then told it was in vain to deny it, for there was good proof of its being on board; for it would be found, as there were Committees appointed to open every package, and that he had better be open and candid about it; and demanded the cocket for the Tea; upon which he confeſſed it was board, and delivered the cocket. The Owners and the Committee immediately met at Mr. Francis's, where Capt. Chambers was ordered to attend. Upon examining him who was the ſhipper and owner of the Tea, he declared that he was ſole owner of it.—After the moſt mature deliberation, it was determined to communicate the whole ſtate of the matter to the people, who were convened near the ſhip; which was accordingly done. The Mohawks were prepared to do their duty at a proper hour, but the body of the people were ſo impatient that before it arrived a number of them entered the ſhip, about 8 P. M. took out the Tea, which was at hand, broke the caſes and ſtarted their contents in the river, without doing any damage to the ſhip or cargo. Several perſons of reputation were placed below to keep tally, and about nine to prevent ill diſpoſed perſons from going below the deck. At 10 the people all diſperſed in good order, but in great wrath againſt the Captain; and it was not without ſome riſque of his life that he eſcaped. Saturday at 8 A. M. all the bells of the city rang, purſuant to the notice publiſhed on Thurſday. About 9, the greateſt number of people were collected at and near the Coffee Houſe, that was ever known in this city. At a quarter paſt nine the Committee came out of the Coffee-Houſe with Capt. Lockyer, upon which the band of muſick attending, played, God ſave the King. Immediately there was a call for Capt. Chambers,—where is he? where is he? Capt. Lockyer muſt not go till we find Capt. Chambers to ſend him with the Tea Ship. This produced marks of fear in Capt. Lockyer, who imagined ſome miſchief was intended him; but upon aſſurance being given him to the contrary, he appeared compoſed. The Committee with the muſic, conducted him through the multitude, to the end of Murray's wharf, where he was put on board the pilot boat, and wiſhed a ſafe paſſage; upon which the multitude gave loud huzza's, and many guns were fired, expreſſive of their joy at his departure. The Committee of Obſervation at the Hook, having cognizance of him till a fair wind offers for his departure from thence. Thus to the great mortification of the ſecret and open enemies of America, and the joy of all the friends of liberty and human nature, the union of theſe colonies is maintained in a conteſt of the utmoſt importance to their ſafety and felicity.

PHIDAELPHIA, APRIL 27.

Extract of a letter from New-York, April 25, 1774.

"On Friday laſt, about four o'clock in the afternoon, the ſhip London, Capt. Chambers, came up into the harbour. As ſoon as ſhe arrived at Sandy Hook, two of the Committee (who went down to watch the Tea ſhip) went on board of her, and informed Chambers of the intelligence we had received, reſpecting the Tea on board his ſhip, which he poſitively denied, and produced to them his file of cockets, on which there was no cocket for Tea: When the ſhip came to the wharf, the Committee, and ſome of his owners, went on board, and interrogated him on the ſubject, but he ſtill perſiſted in denying it, till Capt. S. (a member of the Committee, and who is likewiſe a proprietor in the ſhip) told him it was in vain to deny it, and that he had better acknowlege it, if he knew any thing of the matter, as he might be aſſured, that every ſuſpicious package would be opened. Upon which, he took the cocket out of his pocket, and preſented it to Capt. S. who immediately withdrew, with the reſt of the Committee, and the owners of the ſhip to the Queen's-head Tavern, where, upon opening the cocket, they diſcovered to their aſtoniſhment, that Chambers was the proprietor of the Teas. This diſcovery greatly embaraſſed the Owners of the ſhip, as they were at a loſs to know what ſteps would be moſt proper to take in the matter, having reaſon to apprehend (from the temper of the inhabitants) that the ſhip and cargo, were in the moſt imminent dangers. They remained at the Queen's-head upwards of two hours, deliberating what courſe to take, and at length concluded there was no trifling with the people, and that it was beſt to inform them of the true ſtate of the matter, which they did between ſix and ſeven o'clock. As ſoon as it was known, the people began to aſſemble, and by the evening a large body were collected, a number of whom went on board the ſhip, broke open the boxes, and emptied every ounce of it into the river. About eight o'clock a number of men, diſguiſed, came along ſide the ſhip for the ſame purpoſe, not ſuſpecting that the buſineſs had been already effected. Chambers ſomehow or other eſcaped in the buſtle. A number of us were in ſearch for him immediately after, both on board the ſhip, and at his lodgings, determined to have baniſhed him at leaſt, and to have ſent him by the Tea ſhip to England; he has however ſaved us the trouble, as we are credibly informed, that he went down early yeſterday morning, and embarked on board the Tea Ship.

"The Committee returned from Sandy Hook laſt night, having left the Tea Ship about nine o'clock yeſterday morning, three leagues from the Hook."

Thurſday laſt arrived here a brigt. Capt. Hinſon, from Jamaica, by whom we have the Kingſton papers, which contain the following intelligence, dated Kingſton, 12th March. "The 28th ult. arrived at Rio Bueno the William and Mary, Capt. Morgan, in 36 days from the Downs, who brings the following intelligence: That on the 10th ult. in lat. 22 deg. long. 32, he ſpoke the Mercury Packet, Captain Sharpe, from Bengal and Madraſs, for England, diſpatched home with the very important news of the city of Tanjour being taken by ſtorm, by the Company's troops, under the command of Gen. Spencer, who made the King of Tanjour priſoner; and that the city with the King, was agreed to be ranſomed. That another province in India, taken by the Engliſh Eaſt-India Company previous to the capture of Tanjour, had been diſpoſed of for 1,400,000l, 600,000 of which was then on board the above packet, as a remittance to the company; and that our affairs in India are now in a moſt flouriſhing condition."

Extract of a Letter from London, February 17.

"What will be done with America, it is impoſſible to conjecture. Coercive meaſures of ſome kind, will, it is highly probable, be adopted. Boſton will receive particular marks of reſentment. People here are greatly exaſperated, ſo much that one cannot talk with them; even Robinhood's Society think of nothing leſs than ſtopping up our ports, and deſtroying every ſort of navigation. Lord Dartmouth, we are told, has wrote circular Letters to the American Governors, putting queries; anſwers to which may ſerve to explain the wiſhes and deſigns of America. Some of the Privy Council are very warm, others again are more moderate."

BOSTON, APRIL 28.

Extract of a letter from London, Feb. 19, 1774.

"Few ſeem to condemn the returning the Tea, but many think the deſtroying of it at Boſton is an atrocious act, taking it in the light of an avowed inſult.--Frequent councils are held, but little tranſpires—Puffing politicians talk of violent meaſures;---forcing Tea upon the Americans with a Fleet, and Troops to guard it---but to what purpoſe this, unleſs determined to knock out the brains of thoſe who refuſe to buy and drink it—they talk of blocking up all your ports; but to what purpoſe that! the coloniſts cannot be ſtarved in a plentiful country; the merchants and manufacturers in England would ſuffer, and be the firſt to complain—Judicious people conſider forcible meaſures baneful and ruinous to both countries; and I am perſuaded adminiſtration will avoid ſuch as far as they can—'Tis ſaid Government is to indemnify the Eaſt-India Company, and make a demand upon Boſton, and 'tis probable they will exact it under ſome menace—'Tis ſaid here you are willing to make a reſtitution, provided the act is repealed; but how Government will take ſuch an alternative, is a queſtion—It ſeems the general opinion here, that the controverſy with America is at ſuch a criſis, that if ſomething ſolid is not ſpeedily deviſed and purſued, the colonies muſt be abſolutely loſt—There is good ſenſe in the obſervation, and I doubt not Government ſees it—The preſent miniſtry are called timid; be that as it will, I am much inclined to think, from their private characters, they would of themſelves much prefer conciliating to hoſtile meaſures, could they ſee their way—It were to be wiſhed ſome unprejudiced perſon of abilities would juſt now candidly dilate the merits of the controverſy in a letter to Lord Dartmouth, and, by an inveſtigation of the ſeveral and relative intereſts of the two countries, frame at leaſt the outlines of a conciliating plan; it is no doubt an arduous talk (as the field is wide) yet not impracticable—I am perſuaded ſuch an attempt, candidly and well done, would prove as acceptable at preſent to adminiſtration as a lanthorn to a man groping in the dark—ſome harſh ſteps were reſolved on, and would have taken place, in the affair of the Sloop at Rhode-Iſland, but a well wrote letter to his Lordſhip pointing out the conſequence, ſeaſonably arrived to prevent it; of two evils his Lordſhip choſe the leaſt—Adminiſtration no doubt ſees the impolicy of exaſperating a people already too much diſguſted, and a people on whom this country's ſtrength and wealth ſo much depend; but what ſhall they do! Things are not thoroughly underſtood here in regard to the colonies, and on the other hand your jealouſy and prejudices are grown ſtrong—'Tis ſaid Government means to engage ſome principal people in each of your capitals to give a lead to their meaſure—I can hardly credit this, ſuch principal people had beſt take care, liberty boys are unmanageable folks—I hope a kind providence will ſuperintend and direct all for the beſt."

NEW-YORK APRIL 28.

Extract of a letter from London, dated March 4.

"In my next I hope to be able to give you ſome account of American affairs, as it is ſaid the parliament will proceed thereon the 7th inſtant, and I hope with coolneſs and good-nature, though moſt people on this ſide the water have changed their opinions, with regard to the conduct of the Americans, and the inhabitants of Boſton in particular, whoſe conduct, they ſay, cannot be juſified: 'Tis poſſible their form of Government will be metamorphoſed, and ſome other matters take place that will be agreeable to many of the people in that province."

On Sunday night, at 8 P. M. the Committee of Obſervation returned from the Hook. They inform us, that the ſailors of the Tea Ship, being unwilling to proceed with her to London, made a raft of ſpars and boards, in order to quit the ſhip with the tide of flood, but were obſerved by the Captain, and being aided by the Committee, who offered their aſſiſtance to him, they deſiſted from their project. That on Sunday, at 10 A. M. the ſhip and the ſloop, with the Committee, weighed their anchors and ſtood to ſea; and at 2 P. M. the pilot boat and the Committee's ſloop left her at the diſtance of three leagues from the Hook.

With Capt. Lockyer, in the ſhip Nancy, went paſſenger, Capt. James Chambers late of the ſhip London.

PHILADELPHIA MAY 4.

Extract of a Letter from London, February 14.

"You will have heard before this reaches you, how infamouſly Dr. Franklin has been treated by adminiſtration; and you will ſoon ſee in what light they behold American petitions. There is not a more obnoxious character here at preſent, than that of a friend to America. The Colonies ſhould, therefore, be more particularly attentive in cultivating union and harmony among themſelves. The ſpirit of this country is extremly hoſtile to them; and they have nothing to depend upon, but their own union and firmneſs."

On Saturday laſt were executed, purſuant to their ſentence, James Swaine, and a mulatto woman, for murder; Barnaby Ripton for counterfeiting the currency of this province, and Joſeph Price and Richard Birch for burglary. James Hambleton and Thomas Stephens were reprieved, and Conrad Founder was reſpited during the Governor's pleaſure.

And yeſterday about 4 o'clock, in the afternoon, the effigies of Alexander Wedderburne, Eſq; convicted of traducing the Americans and inſulting the Agent, before his Majeſty's Privy Council, for doing his duty, and of Thomas Hutchinſon, Eſq; Governor of Maſſachuſetts Bay, convicted of an attempt to incenſe Great-Britain againſt her Colonies, were put into a cart and conducted through the ſtreets of this city. On the breaſt of Wedderburne was the following label:——

"The infamous WEDDERBURNE,
"A pert prime Prater, of a ſcabby race,
"Guilt in his heart, and famine in his face.
CHURCHILL, altered.
"Similis Proteo mutet, et ſallacior Catalina.
"Hunc vos, Britanni cavete!

"He availed himſelf of the licence of the bar to inſult the venerable Dr. FRANKLIN, whoſe knowlege in philoſophy, univerſal benevolence, juſt ſentiments of liberty, and indefatigable labours to promote harmony between Britain and her Colonies, entitle him to the eſteem of the learned of every nation, the love of all good men, and the ſincere affection of every honeſt Briton and American.

"But the baſe-born SOLICITOR, who attempted to turn his learning, benevolence, and patriotiſm, into ridicule, is (like Hutchinſon) a Parricide of the firſt rank, who would ſacrifice his country, his liberty and his God, and delight in the carnage of the moſt faithful Britiſh ſubjects in America, to gain promotion at Court.

"Such horrid monſters are a diſgrace to human nature, and juſtly merit our utmoſt deteſtation, and the GALLOWS, to which they are aſſigned, and then burnt by Electric Fire."

With ſeveral others, among which was the following lines from Hudibras:

So a wild Tartar, when he ſpies
A man that's handſome, valiant, wiſe,
If he can kill him, thinks t'inherit
His wit, his beauty, and his ſpirit:
As if juſt ſo much he enjoy'd,
As in another he deſtroy'd.

Governor Hutchinſon, who was repreſented with a double face, had affixed on his breaſt the following label:——Governor HUTCHINSON, whom we now conſign to the gallows and flames, as the only proper reward for double-dealing and treachery to his native country."

After being expoſed for ſeveral hours, they were hung on a gallows erected near the Coffee-houſe, ſet in flames by electric fire, and conſumed to aſhes, about 6 o'clock, midſt a vaſt concourſe of people, who teſtified their reſentment againſt the originals by the loudeſt acclamations.

From the PUBLIC ADVERTISER of February 10.

ALEXANDER WEDDERBURNE, Eſq;

BY what more than helliſh rancour were you actuated in attempteng to convert the balm, which Doctor Franklin's humanity had poured upon the wounds of others, into a poiſonous mineral for diſtruction! To what character in times paſt ſhall I compare you? What fiction will furniſh your equal! I will not inſult Zanga by a compariſon that will diſhonour him: I will not compare the dignity of inſulting worth with the meanneſs of cowardly revenge. No, no, Sir,—the exquiſite villainy of Iago, in the blackeſt purpoſes of his heart, will beſt delineate yours.

* "So will I turn his virtue into pitch,
"And, out of his own goodneſs, make the net
"That ſhall enmeſh him."

It is the act of a coward to inſult an old man? It is the act of a villain to accuſe falſely, and ſtab the character of an innocent man? Mr Wedderburne is the man who inſults age. Mr. Wedderburne is the man who ſtabs innocence.

I have now expoſed the falſhoods you uttered. They were falſhoods not haſtily, but deliberately, uttered; not wantonly, but maliciouſly; not whiſpered, but proclaimed; not to a few, but to a high and numerous audience.

And now after being thus arraigned and thus convicted, where will you ſhew your opprobrious head?——

Go now and boaſt your abiliti[illegible] quence—but let it be among wret[illegible] deſtitute of every ſenſe of honour, [illegible] of humanity. Go try if the indecent an[illegible] unprecedented exclamation of hear him, hear him, from men pretending to ſit in criminal judgment, can conſole you under the contempt and deteſtation of every virtuous mind. It is you on whom a mark will be fixed—Hic niger eſt, hunc tu Romane caveto It is your name that will in future point the ſting of the bitterſt invective. When every other epithet of opprobrium is exhauſted, it will be the laſt effort of abuſe againſt a man to ſay—He is the WEDDERBURNE of this day. A BOSTONIAN.

* Shakeſpear's Othello.

CHARLES-TOWN, MAY 16.

THOMAS Fee, the Murderer of the Creek Indian called the Mad-Turkey, having been apprehended and confined in the Jail at Ninety-Six, was on the 30th paſt taken out from thence and carried off, by ten armed white Men, who forced that Priſon open, after having threatened to put the Jailor to Death, if he did not deliver them the Keys, which he refuſed.

Laſt Thurſday Parker Quince, Eſq; arrived here from Cape-Fear—Maſter Brooke Roberts (among other Paſſengers in Capt. Wright) from the College at Philadelphia. And the ſame Day, Mr. Simonſon, (Copartner of Mr. Brower) embarked for Salem, in Capt. Silliſbee's Scooner.

The ſame Day died, Capt. William Hayman, Maſter of the Ship Bacchus, of Liverpoole, lately arrived from Africa.

A Brigantine from Jamaica, one Fortune, Maſter, was loſt off St. Simon's Bar, in Georgia, about the 20th ult. but the Crew and Cargo were ſaved.

To-morrow the Court of General Seſſions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer, Aſſize and General Jail Delivery, will begin to be holden here.

A Correſpondent ſays, "he is ſorry to ſee Guineymen "permitted, at a Seaſon when no bad Weather is appre-"hended, to come up from Rebellion Road, before they "have there performed the Quarantine required by Law; "by which he apprehends the Inhabitanrs of the Town "may be expoſed to ſome terrible Calamity—worſe than "the Rage to buy Negroes."

Price of Rice is ſaid to be 47*ſ*6 the Money down, 50*ſ*. ſome Credit.—Quantity cleared 74,853 Tierces.

Mr. TIMOTHY,

May I be permitted to propoſe a Queſtion in your Paper, to the Chamber of Commerce, or any of the learned in the Law, who may be pleaſed to vouchſafe an Anſwer, pro bono Publico.

IT is a ſettled Point that—A Trading Houſe or Company, of which one Partner ſhall reſide OUT of the Province, CANNOT BE SUED FOR DEBT in our Court of Common Pleas. Query then—Can ſuch a Houſe or Company, who has a Partner reſident out of the Province, ſue thoſe that are in their Debt?

If they can—ſurely the DISADVANTAGE my Brethren are ſubjected to, ought to be quickly and fully made known. I am, Sir, yours, A PLANTER.

N. B. I will ſell neither Indico or Rice, to any Houſe or Company who are thus—beyond the Reach of Law.

THE growing Importance of the College of NEW-JERSEY, (for the Uſe of which the above Lottery is Principally deſigned) is now generally known through every Province of America. It has hitherto ſubſiſted, and been raiſed to its preſent Situation, entirely by the Favour of the Public. In the centre of North-America, and a pleaſant, healthy Country, it is well fitted for the moſt extenſive Uſefulneſs. The Succeſs which has attended the vigorous Efforts already made, to raiſe its Funds, and furniſh the Means of a complete and finiſhed Education, to all who are ſent to it, has encouraged thoſe concerned in the preſent Attempt; eſpecially as ſeveral very judicious Perſons have warmly recommended it, ſignifying their Surprize, that at a Time, when ſo many have taken this Method of promoting public Undertakings, a SEMINARY, of ſuch Importance, ſhould not alſo put in for a Share of the general Benevolence. This, added to the other Schemes for the Support and Improvement of the College, will afford ſo many Friends of that Inſtitution, an Opportunity of contributing with very little Riſk of loſing, and a conſiderable Chance of Gain to themſelves, who would not incline that the ſmall Sums they could ſpare, ſhould appear in a Subſcription Paper.
